AlphaVerse, CBI's metaverse project, unveils a new world

CBI is moving forward with its proprietary development of AlphaVerse, a virtual world or metaverse, which it exclusively owns. Based on the blockchain, it offers an interactive experience in several environments, including non-fungible tokens (NFTs). AlphaVerse will connect several worlds, developed by CBI or third-party partners. Thanks to the blockchain's properties, AlphaVerse will be able to offer a wide variety of interactive experiences created directly by the metaverse, in addition to integrated tools enabling users to create their own content (games, environments). AlphaVerse is scheduled to be launched in summer 2022.

Alongside this first NFT sale with United at Home, CBI is unveiling Beat AlphaVerse, a dedicated music metaverse by Alphaverse. The primary goal with this exclusive United at Home NFT collection is to raise funds to support charity programs. Other sales will follow over the coming months, with United at Home and other artists.

AlphaVerse retains a variable percentage from the NFT sales, depending on the royalties to be paid to the artists and talents associated with the NFTs. With the United at Home NFTs, virtually all of the proceeds from sales will be donated to United at Home, which will then allocate the funds to the various charitable programs.

Atari is also involved with AlphaVerse through a dedicated world, Atari AlphaVerse, which is covered by a long-term license. AlphaVerse plans to welcome other universes through its central hub. To discover AlphaVerse, visit www.alphaverse.com.

The charitable NFT sales initiative is being developed with Blockchain Artists Agency (BAA), a talent agency that is 50% owned by CBI in partnership with Jean-Charles Carre and Michael Wiesenfeld.
